PRESIDENT SMITH'S VIEWS. President Smith is certainly likely to prove himself a profit to the people of Utah, whether he is a Prophet or not. His sound talk at the late conference on the subject of practical education; coming as it does from one who stands so high in the estimation of so many of the people of the state, will certainly be profitable. The subject is one of the greatest importance, and will doubtless recieve the attention it deserves hereafter. We have viewed with concern the tendency of the age to seek employment in the professional ranks, rather than in the more useful and less lucrative employments of agriculture and mechanica. President George Q. Cannon on several occasions called attention to this state of affairs, and warned the people against its tendencies.

Our young men generally speaking would prefer to become lawyers, doctors, merebants, civil engineers, or in fact anything along these lines rather than farmers or mechanics. Nor can they be blamed under present conditions. What man of common sense would adopt for his life work a business at which he would have to work harder dress meaner, be less respected, and get far less pay, when he could have the other sort of a job. It is not only the education that is at fault but it is also the social system. In a general way it may be truthfully said that the class of of society that works the hardest gets the least. There are of course always individual members in every class of society who by dint of economy, and extra exertion succeed better than others; to these individual instances we are accustomed to point as illustrations tention of a number of the smaller cit- few minutes another engine elattered illustration is not fair. And having reached this satisfactory conclusion it considers the incident closed. If there is one hing more than another for the possession of which the Oracle man is to be envied, it is his ability to make himself believe that he has won when he has lost, that is if he really does believe it. Such a man as that can never know the perow of defeat. Cases like his illustrate to perfection the wisdom of the old saving that where ignorance is bliss it s folly to be wise. We heartily congratulate the gentleman on the possession of this consoling attribute.

Aster paying his respects to the ediors of the large danies in our state in no dattering terms the editor of "Truto" turns himself loose on the country papers, which he says are about as near nothing as can be; with the exception of a very few which he reluctantly admits are "Entitled to credit." Their editors he concludes must be a "Villian- of the 13th inst which deals with the ously lazy lot:" who have not even the grace to take kindly the affectionate suggestions which able men like students of the Branch Normal, himself make to them. Last Saturday witnessed the Battle efficer the master of every farmer in between the Branch Normal and the carried the impression in a former issue that the challenge for the combat had come from the Normal team, we were mistaken; the champions were the challengers, and our local team was one of the few teams in the state that they had not vanguished. It was hard. ly to be expected that the Normal boys would stand much chance against the famous five who were pitted against them, and who have been organized or at least three years, but the local ada did themselves proud, and if their captain had not met with an accident the record they made would no doubt have been still better.
